LIFE SKILLS: Responsibility

BEEF

Beef cattle are one of America's most popular agriculture commodities. As a matter of fact, one-quarter of the world's beef supply comes from the United States. Learning about the origins of different breeds of beef animals, by-products produced and parts of beef cattle are just a few of the skills that you can learn in the 4-H Beef project. Look at the skills to your left. Check you favorites. Then work with your 4-H leaders and parents to make a 4-H project plan of what you want to learn and do this year.

BEEF BEGINNINGS

Use the Internet to research the following list of beef cattle. Can you figure out from which country each animal originated? Circle the ones that are most common to Tennessee. Again, use the Internet as your resource guide.

ACTIVITIES

- Beef shows
- Skill-a-thons
- Judging teams
- Visit a cattle farm to learn more about raising beef cattle
- Visit a slaughter house or butcher to learn more about meat processing
- Visit with a local veterinarian to learn more about animal health care and nutrition

SERVICE IDEAS

- Conduct a beef project demonstration on one aspect of raising beef animals. Give your demonstration to younger students.
- Take your animal to a farm day to teach younger children about beef.
- Create a matching game using the information you gathered in the "Beef Beginnings" game to help project group members learn about beef cattle origins.

BEEFY BY-PRODUCTS

Beef is not the only product that we get from cattle. Almost the entire animal can be used to benefit us in some way. For example, from a 1,000-pound steer, only 400 pounds (approximately) are used for beef that we eat. The other 600 pounds are not used as beef, but are used as by-products. Draw a line from the by-product listed on the left to the part of the animal from which we get the by-product. Need a hint?
